Venice suspends Doughty

Opponents vow to work for permanent removal

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The Venice School Board suspended Superintendent James Doughty with pay after meeting in executive session for almost four hours Tuesday. Residents and teachers who have been in favor of the suspension were Bill Tyler, Metro Pierson, Tyrone Q. Echools and Board President Alvester Salmond. Karen Matkins voted against the suspension, and Sandra Harris passed. James

Harrill did not attend

Tuesday's special meeting

because of his duties.

Doughty was told to surrender his keys and also told that he would have to have a police escort to come back without comment.

Board members also declined to comment on the removal.

The board also did not name a replacement.

However,

Venice High

School Principal

Annette

Alexander-

Chamberlain

also holds the title of assistant superintendent and is expected to fill in until a replacement is named.

The board had gone into executive session to discuss both personnel and to hear reports from principals about the Doughty issue.

After about two hours, the principals came out of the meeting, then Doughty came out and sat in the outer office of the administration building.

Board Secretary Tyler then came out and asked Doughty and a reporter to leave the building. They then met for about another hour before coming back to open session.

Teachers and students attending the meeting were extremely pleased by the board's actions.

"We're, of course, very happy about it. I don't think it should have been this hard."

have been this hard."

Baker said they would continue to attend meetings until the matter is completely resolved.

Residents were also

happy, but planned to continue

attending meetings.

Caroline Wilson, who has been highly critical of Doughty, said she was "content."

"I want to see it in writing, but I'm contented," she said.

"We're going to stay with until we're sure that what they called tonight a temporary removal from office is a permanent removal," Baker said.

Baker said there are a number of other issues between the district and unions, including a number of grievances and unfair labor practice complaints that have already been filed.

"We will wait to hear from them on how they choose to proceed; otherwise, we'll continue on with the processes," Baker said. "Thing one was to remove Doughty - that's happened, now we'll see what happens."

Residents were also

happy, but planned to continue

attending meetings.

President Bill Clinton spoke at the new Walgreen's location in East St. Louis Tuesday night.

Clinton visits E. St Louis area

Encourages businesses to invest

By Mike Viola

Sights of hope are sprouting up all over East St. Louis, said Joe Hubbard, director of Catholic Urban Programs, citing as examples the Jackie Joyner-Kersee Youth Center.

Union Bank, Walgreens and the new library about to begin construction.

Now, he said he hopes President Bill Clinton's visit to the city will be a catalyst for even more economic growth.

"This visit lets other people know that there are a lot of positive things going on in East St. Louis," Hubbard said.

"This is a city with great potential that is on its way back."

Dana Howard, an East St.

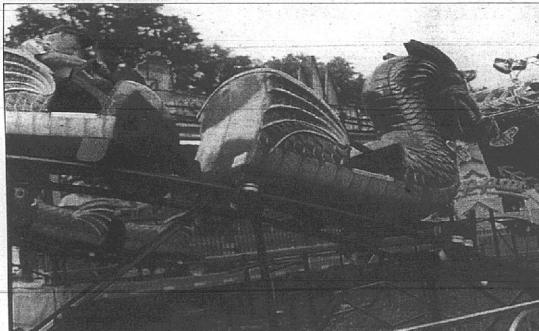

Louis resident and member of the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles (and a former member of the Rams), said Clinton's visit should be viewed as part of an ongoing revitalization effort.

While Howard said he was impressed by Clinton's visit, he said her was more impressed by what he saw a few days earlier during the holiday.

"I was in downtown East St. Louis this weekend, and there was all of these people walking around," he said. "There were blacks and whites, rich and poor, and they were all having a good time."

"That is the real sign that East St. Louis is in the come-back mode."

Area weather problems abound

Hard rain knocks out power, followed by heat warnings over weekend

By Michael Heil
Staff writer

Mother Nature recently displayed her diversity.

Over the Independence Day weekend, temperatures soared into the mid- to upper 90s, prompting those attending outdoor fairs to take precautions to avoid heat-related problems.

In a flash Tuesday, she unleashed her fury as a storm swept through the Granite City area, knocking out power in downtown Granite City.

Rick Moore, regional manager of Illinois Power, said lightning struck a generator at a substation at 22nd and Adams, damaging a regulator. The damage resulted in about 700 people living along Delmar and Cleveland to be without power for a little more than two hours.

The weather was hot, but not for an extended period of time."

Kathleen Gauen
Director, ambulatory services

At Granite City Hall, aldermen were in various meetings when the power failed.

They quickly scurried to the parking lot after passing a motion to postpone their City Council meeting until Tuesday. While the storm caused numerous power outages, the sun probably caused a few sunburns over the Fourth of July weekend, according to Kathleen Gauen, director of ambulatory services at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, no one was rushed to the emergency room because of an illness stemming from the heat.

"We didn't identify any," she said. "The weather was hot, but not for an extended period of time. That may have helped."

As the summer progresses and as the heat continues to intensify, people should stay out of the sun as much as possible from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. to avoid dehydration and heat sickness, health officials say.

Festival goes medieval

SIUE hosts 2nd annual Renaissance fair

By Scott Cousins

From jousting to tapestry, the Southern Illinois Renaissance Festival will be an old-fashioned treat for people who love all things medieval.

A fund-raiser for the Trails

West Council, Boy Scouts of America, the festival returns for a second year to Southern Illinois University Edwardsville for two weekends - July 31-Aug. 1 and Aug. 7-8.

New this year will be jousting, featuring a professional troupe, the Hanlon-Lees Jousting Knights of Chicago.

"It's shaping up really good," said Don Kinney, Scout executive for the council. "It was a sell-out deal for us last year, and we knew that it would be."

"We feel once it gets established, it will be a really good fund-raiser," he added. "We expect it to grow significantly this year."

The festival is patterned after a summer fair from about 1550, during the Middle Ages. It will include merchants, actors, storytellers and live combat demonstrations. Presiding over the event as king will be King Valerian of Orione, who will lead a progression through the fair and bestow knighthood on worthy

Court ruling says common sense should prevail

Did the Illinois Supreme Court chicken out the other day?

The Court recently upheld the constitutionality of a bill containing the "implementation" language for the 1995-1996 state budget. The ruling brought a wave of relief to the Statehouse because if the Court had gone the other way, the state budgets for most of this decade could have been declared null and void. A little background:

A couple of years back, the Supremes killed a law that bailed out a fund to subsidize the repair of underground gasoline storage tanks. The legislation also included a much-hallyhoed provision which publicized the names of convicted sex offenders. The bill also contained language to allow employers to eavesdrop on their workers.

The Illinois Constitution forbids the General Assembly from passing legislation that contains more than one subject. The so-called "single-subject" clause was ignored for over two decades until the Supreme Court finally took notice in 1997 and began killing legislation, starting with the gas tank/sex offender/eavesdropping law.

The General Assembly had lumped the three topics under the broad banner of "public safety" as a cursory nod to the single-subject clause.

Legislators pooh-poohed warnings of constitutional problems.

After all, everyone knew that the single-subject clause was a joke, and the Supreme Court had never shown much of an interest in telling the General Assembly how to conduct its business.

Oops. The law was so blatant that the Court felt it had to do something.

The Supremes ruled that the single subject clause demanded that all the pieces within individual bills had to do more than just relate to a broad topic. The real test was whether each piece related to each of the other pieces. Yes, leaky underground gas tanks, sex offenders and outlaw employees could all be considered a danger to public safety, but they had nothing to do with each other.

Why did the General Assembly put all of those things on one bill? Nobody wanted to vote for the underground gas tank provision on its own because it required a teeny tiny increase in the gas tax. Combining it with the sex offender bill forced people to support it because they would have had a very difficult time explaining to the folks back home why they voted with the perverts. The eavesdropping thing was just sort of sneaked through by the business lobby.

Then, earlier this year, the Supremes used their single-subject reasoning to kill a law that combined a truth-in-sentencing provision with a barely-noticed change in the Hospital Lien Act. Both were government functions overseen by local state's attorneys, but neither had anything whatsoever to do with the other. Gone.

Fast-forward to the other day.

This time the Court took up a bill that changed 21 different public laws, including the Pension Code, the Pontoon Gaming Act, the Adoption Act, the Unemployment Insurance Act and the Probate Act. It also imposed a new tax on cigars.

And this time, the Court upheld the law. Why? Well, all the pieces related to implementing the state budget, wrote Justice Michael Blandie for the majority. OK, but they didn't really relate to each other, right?

Right, but Blandie suggested that individual parts of legislation could be a bit different as long as they were not "obviously discordant." In other words, legislators can break the single-subject clause, but they'd better not. This ruling will almost definitely generate more court fights over what is and isn't "obviously discordant," which will be very good for the lawyers. And in the short term it's probably not bad for everyone else, either. If the Court had struck down that law, the ramifications of eight nullified state budgets would have been absolutely mind-boggling.

Taxpayers might have demanded refunds, state aid might have had to be returned. All in all, not a good thing.

But two justices, James Heffner and Moses Harrison, strongly dissented. They two argued that the Court had effectively nullified the single-subject clause by ruling that individual legislative pieces didn't always have to relate to each other.

That's probably an overreaction, even though you could make a case that the Court acted more out of the practical concerns for the potential consequences of striking down the law than for the precedents.

But way back in 1971 the Supreme Court banned "discordant provisions that by no fair intent could be considered as having any legitimate relationship to each other." In other words, use that good old common sense. Leaking gas tanks and sex offenders? No. Budget enactment provisions? Yes.

Of course, common sense and constitutional law don't always mix too well.

Letters to the editor*Police dog dies

TO THE EDITOR:

I am with deep regret that I must inform you of the passing of one of the most respected commissioned officers that the Pontoon Beach Police Department ever had on the force.

Retired Commissioned K-9 Officer Diablo passed from this life on June 12.

I had the pleasure of working with Diablo and his handler throughout Diablo's distinguished career, which started when his handler, Capt. Daniel McKinney, received Diablo from the St. Louis Police Canine School while we both were working for the Venice Police Department.

Diablo has received numerous awards during his career which include the following: 18 citations from the United States Police Canine Association; seven catches of the month; one recognition by USPCA Region 16; five letters of merit from USPCA; Region 16; several letters of appreciation; three medals; two plaques for handler protection; one plaque for tracking; two plaques for narcotics; two citations for narcotics; three citations for tracking; and 25 narcotics busts, all from the German Shepherd Club of St. Louis.

One of these awards were given prior to 1996, and Diablo has since received many more of the same type of awards from various schools and clubs.

I remember the most dramatic thing I saw Diablo do was save Dan from being shot when a suspect pointed a gun at Dan, and Diablo reacted to Dan's orders to charge the man knocking the gun away.

This K-9 was very valuable to our department.

I and the rest of the members of the Pontoon Beach Police Department offer our condolences to Capt. McKinney and his family, as losing his K-9 partner is just the same as losing a member of our department family.

Anyone can teach

TO THE EDITOR:
This is in response to the June 20 letter written by Tom Randant, headlined, "Old ways may have been best for students."

In the past, I have worked for Head Start, two school districts and a junior college as a tutor. In the late 1960s, Bellefonte School District 118 went back to teaching reading, writing, arithmetic and spelling. This program proved to be successful; it gave the children skills needed to work at entry-level positions where only a high school diploma was required.

There probably are senior citizens who would be willing to help by tutoring some neighborhood children this summer. Perhaps you don't think you are qualified. This isn't true.

Anyone can teach a child the multiplication tables with flash cards. You can teach spelling and reading. If you want to advance to teach math and English, Kmart sells self explanatory work books to teach almost any subject for $2.50 each.

Senior citizens, I am appealing to you. Come on out of retirement and give it a try. Parents today both must work to make ends meet. Most poorer families cannot afford summer school.

Grizzlies mean Collinsville is ready to expand economically

Commission wants to start recruiting businesses immediately

By Val McDowell
Staff writer

Kevin Weinacht, chairman of Collinsville's economic development commission, said the recent developments with the Gatway Grizzlies minor-league baseball team gives Collinsville the perfect chance for business advancement.

Weinacht, who was reappointed commission chairman earlier this year, said there are several ways the city can capitalize on this achievement, but it needs to strike while the iron is hot.

A principal move he feels the commission can make is the hiring a full-time economic development director.

"Now, more than ever, we need someone to be out there full time and just bring business here," he said. "Collinsville is ready to make it happen, ready to be a major player, and we need to take advantage of our improved situation," Weinacht said.

The subject of a full-time economic development director has been a matter of discussion with the commission and council for a long time. Last year, the commission prepared a report outlining potential responsibilities for the job and ways to look for qualified candidates.

"All of the political candidates at the recent election said they were in favor of this, and I don't have any reason to believe that's changed. I suspect it's been delayed a bit because of the sudden activity with the Grizzlies," Weinacht said.

Weinacht said the time is critical for the council to revisit the issue and begin to take action.

"The next thing that needs done is for the mayor and the council to meet with the committee and discuss running advertisements for the position in various publications. Then, the commission, I suppose, would be responsible for placing the add and the initial screening of candidates," Weinacht said.

He stated the reason its so important to take action now is to have one individual who can go out and aggressively seek new businesses, rather than wait in an passive manner for businesses to come to Collinsville.

"Now we can tout the Grizzlies, and that will be a great benefit to the area. But we need a single individual who can organize and recruit the campaign on behalf of the city, who can act as its chief sales person," Weinacht said.

He said he feels the ideal person would be one of the potential candidates available to present to the council no later than 90 days after receiving clearance to run an ad.

"We would present them to the council, and hopefully the council and mayor would make a decision between them in October so the person can start about January 2000," Weinacht said.

He feels the Grizzlies offer what would be the position an excellent sales tool to present to businesses when promoting Collinsville.

"What this says is that, yes, Collinsville does want your business and we will work with you to get it," Weinacht said.

New bookstore opens

Store specializes in hard-to-find books

By Val McDowell
Staff writer

A new and unique used book store recently opened in downtown Collinsville.

"Main Street Books U.S.A."

at 114 W.

Main offici-

opened its doors this week, and will be open six days a week.

Regular summer hours are Tuesday-Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Sunday, from noon to 6 p.m. It is closed on Mondays.

Joe Croy, controlling partner, said the store has a wide variety of books that are hard to find.

"We're not in competition with any of the other big stores about the area. What we have to offer is something completely different," he said.

He said some of the rarer publications available will be encased in glass for display and offered for sale.

"We have books from 1822 to 1997. Some of the publications we have were printed when Andrew Jackson was president," he said.

Croy said the store also offers hard to find children's books, and a wide variety of magazines, most selling for 25 cents.

"We have some commemorative editions that will cost more, but most of the magazines we have will be a real reasonable buys," he said.

By "commemorative," he refers to limited edition magazines on the Kennedy assassination, for example, or Princess Diana.

He said prices on most of the books are based on the rarity of the publication, its age and condition.

The store has nearly a quarter of a million books available, and Croy said he expects that number to grow. For more information, call the store at 343-1965.

County Building to host Wheelchair Ramble

Annual event to support local care homes in need

By Paul Mackie
Staff writer

Wheelchairs will roll Saturday in the courtyard of the Madison County Administration Building, 157 N. Main St.

The County Homes Action Committee will host its 2nd Annual Wheelchair Ramble at 9 a.m. in support of two care homes, which some county officials claim don't have enough operating funds to remain open.

"We invite everyone who supports keeping the homes open to come out," said Debbie Groeteka of Collinsville, a co-chair of the CHAC. "We know so much more about this issue now than we did one year ago when a divided County Board voted 15-13 to close both homes."

"There is no reason, financial or otherwise, that either of those homes should close."

Gary Groeteka, the other co-chair, said his group better understands the state process involved in the county's as yet unsuccessful attempts to close the Madison County Nursing Home and the Madison County Sheltered Care Home, both of which are in Edwardsville.

"We know that we aren't nearly as bleak, financially, as (former County Auditor Fred) Bathon had projected," Gary Groeteka said.

He was referring to an

The county has also spent the equivalent of $10,000 on legal fees for the losing process.

Members of the CHAC claim the county is illegally spending the money, which is earmarked strictly for operational spending.

"The county is spending taxpayers' money to fight its own citizens," said Erwin Wein of Glen Carbon. "The public needs to know this is going on."

The wheelchair ramble will feature Uncle Sam look-alike leading a parade with bugles and tambourines.

"We don't have any actual wheelchair people," Gary Groeteka said. "We just have wheelchairs for people to sit in. It's just to draw attention to nursing home-bound people who are commonly bound to wheelchairs."

Last July's event, which drew nearly 70 people, led up to a public hearing attended by about 100 people at Edwardsville High School.

This year, the ramble occurs less than two weeks before what could be a crucial state hearing.

Madison County Assistant State's Attorney John Gilbert will present the case for closing the homes to administrative law judge Richard Hart in Springfield on July 22.

Some members of the CHAC have retained an attorney and will present their arguments to Hart, who will then make a recommendation to the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board.

"People need to know that both homes are open," said Jane Johnson of Wood River, whose mother lives at the nursing home. "The care

East St. Louis should be a hub of the Bi-State area, said R.J. Krause, director of the R.J. Krause All-Stars youth program. He said developers need to be made aware of the advantages of locating in East St. Louis and the availability of prime land along the riverfront.

St. Clair County Circuits-Judge Milton Wharton said the presidential visit lets the people of East St. Louis know the federal government is concerned about their needs and is willing to work to bring economic revival into their community.

Richard Mark, president of St. Mary's Hospital, said he hopes the visit will focus federal attention on both the economic and educational needs of the city.

Mark said he recently met with U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin and U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello to urge them to preserve federal programs designed to help hospitals in poor communities survive. He said he had also written Clinton voicing his concern that possible federal cutbacks could prove disastrous to hospitals like St. Mary's.

Mark, who also chairs the state-appointed Financial Oversight Panel for East St. Louis School District 189, said the economic revival of East St. Louis will depend greatly on improvement of the local schools.

"Real improvement will not take place unless we improve education," Mark said. "Education and economic development go hand-in-hand."

Ronora Morris, a member of the District 189 School Board, said she hopes the visit will provide Clinton with a better understanding of the needs of the community.

She said the visit is also an excellent opportunity for young people in the community to see a world leader they learn about in school.

Booster Club President Betty Atchison said she hopes the visit will provide Clinton with a better understanding of the needs of the community.

Carrie and Tom Windrow watched from the east area with their 10-year-old twin sons, Jenna and Paula. Tom, who has lived in Granite City most of his life, said his family has attended the event the past eight years as another fun-filled way to celebrate Independence Day.

"We always have a barbecue during the day and we watch the fireworks at night. It's like going to a drive-in for 20 minutes or so, only the big screen is a little higher up," Tom said.

The display began, the crowd was entertained by the 100-member Patriotic Choir and Stan Farnaszewski's Big Band sounds of the 1940s. The tunes from yester-year sprang people to their feet as they sang and danced.

to the Andrews Sisters classic Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy and other patriotic songs.

Behind the choir and musicians, a huge American flag was draped, adding more red, white and blue flavor to America's 223rd birthday party.

The celebration actually kicked off June 30 with the beginning of a three-day carnival at the Wilson Park grounds. A four-story ferris wheel gave fairgoers a look at the festivities from above, while those with iron-clad stomachs dipped up and down and spun around on several fast-paced rides.

Some people, however, preferred to play an assortment of games, hoping to win that special stuffed animal.

Shelly Plane of Pontoon Beach was won of the lucky winners as she walked away with a teddy bear by tossing two consecutive rings around a Coke bottle.

"I've never won anything in my life before this," Shelly said. "I couldn't hit a barn with a basketball."

The carnival ended Sunday night with the fireworks display. Some fair activities included a petting zoo and carriage rides.

Although temperatures climbed into the mid-90s and the humidity soared, Granite City Park District Director Dave Polivick said the events went on as scheduled and no one suffered from heat-related problems.

"It was successful as ever," Polivick said. "Families came and enjoyed the rides, food, games, activities and the fireworks and the heat wasn't much of a problem."

Bowling tournament to benefit charity

Plaza bowl to host fundraiser for Children's Miracle Network

By Curtiss A. Hartley
Staff writer

The bowling tournament lasts all weekend, July 30 and 31, and Aug. 1.

Participants can register to bowl a three-game series alongside professional bowlers, and also compete for prizes.

"Some of the prizes are so nice, they have to be kept locked up," Atchison said.

She said one example is a hockey puck bearing team member signatures.

Last year, prizes ranged from vacuum cleaners and Cardinals baseball collectibles, to sports paraphernalia, to items from the St. Louis teams, Atchison said.

You would not believe the things people give us to give away," she said.

Atchison said she is teaming up with H.G. Sales in St. Louis to produce the tourna-

"Dave Bueher came to me a couple of years ago and asked if there was anything we could do to give something back," she said.

Atchison said Bueher had benefited as a youth from the same type of generosity the Children's Miracle Network is known for.

"He says if people didn't give about $800,000 when he was a child, he wouldn't be here."

Bowlers can register for $25. The money raised from the tournament is turned over to the St. Louis charity, and then Atchison said she'll start planning again for next year.

Anyone interested in registering for the tournament can pick up a form at the bowling alley, or call Atchison at 377-2131.

Tri City American Legion Post 113 experienced another agonizing paucity of lumber Monday.

But this time, two hits were enough for Tri City to take a 2-1 victory over Bethalto.

Tri City pitcher Devin Mayes hit an RBI grounder to short that scored Jeff Schleicher from third in the first inning. Outfielder Teddy Moore snacked an RBI double that scored Aaron Aaron in the third to put Post 113 over the top.

Ryan Spurgeon scored Bethalto's only run in the top of the fifth.

Bethalto's James Brenner allowed only two hits and two walks while striking out six.

But Brenner was outdueled by Mayes, who threw seven innings of four-hitter ball and struck out 14. This comes after Mayes pitched a five-inning perfect game that was named team of the Granite City High School year.

"Devin did well," Tri City manager Chad Lignoul said. "He definitely pitched his best game of the season. It was probably the best game we have had pitched for our team this season. He has good control, his fastball was popping pretty good, his breaking ball was working well. We only had a couple of runs, but fortunately that was all we needed."

"Teddy has been struggling a little bit lately," Lignoul said. "He hit a ton early in the season, but he has tails off a little now. He's happy to come through. He has come up to me and told me that he knew he was struggling, and it looked like he was just trying too hard. It's nice to see him get a big hit in that situation."

Tri City raised its record to 6-10 overall, and 5-10 in League play.

Post 113 was coming off of a weekend that saw them lose 3-2 to Nashville before beating Salem 15-3, courtesy of staff ace Sean Courtney's first-inning grand slam.

DePew takes helm at Granite City High

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

When Granite City High School baseball coach Gus Lignoul announced his resignation a few weeks ago, Granite City officials knew they had his successor right in line.

Varsity assistant coach Darren DePew, a 1983 graduate and three-sport star at Granite City North High School, was hired as the head coach.

Four candidates interviewed for the job, DePew said. "They make a recommendation to the Board of Education and the Board makes a decision on who they would like. I was fortunate enough to get the job."

DePew has spent nine years in the Lignoul's replacement spent 9 years as assistant varsity coach for Warriors

Granite City dugout as an assistant.

"I think that was important, and so was my baseball experience," DePew said. As coach for two years at SIUE after I finished playing there, I played one year of minor-league ball at (Independent) Boise (Idaho). I also played and managed in the Mon-Clair League for a year or two."

"We had two outstanding candidates apply for the job, both with a lot of baseball in their background," said DePew, adding that he chose Jerry McKechnie referring to sophomore baseball and girls' varsity basketball coach John Moad. "Both have performed extremely well and are excellent coaches. Daren was chosen because of his time in the program, but we are proud to have both of them at Granite City. John will be Daren's assistant and I will be his job."

DePew is grateful for the time spent under Lignoul, who will remain in his position as head of the vocational department.

"I want to thank Gus for the opportunity to coach at the high school at the varsity level," DePew said. "He was very kind and gave me the opportunity when he got the head-coaching job. I really enjoyed it."

"We worked really well together and had a good time. We tried to do what was best for the kids — Gus always tried to look out for the kids, and I learned that from him. I learned that it is important to be involved with the kids and let them know what is going on. Gus did a great job of raising money for the program. He was instrumental in starting the Busch Stadium game we have every year, and last year he was in the first tournament. He has always been very organized and that has really helped me. He does a good job of getting the assistants involved. He gives them responsibilities and makes them feel that they are involved with things."

DePew wants the Granite City baseball program to return to prominence as a contender in the rugged Southwestern Conference. With that in mind, DePew will pay close

Post 365 fails to make semis at tourney

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

For the first time in four years, the Collinsville American Legion Post 365 baseball team failed to reach the semi-final round of the Metro East Tournament of Champions semifinals.

Fairview Heights ended Post 365's run with a 14-5 victory in the quarterfinal round Sunday, stopping Collinsville's bid for a second tournament title in three years. Post 365 won the event in 1997.

Fairview Heights reached the championship game but lost 12-12 to O'Fallon in the title game at Gordon Moore Park in Alton.

Collinsville coach Steve Helmkamp and his players were disappointed that they would be playing in Sunday's elimination bracket. Post 365's 3-0 loss to Champaign late Saturday night left the team without an automatic berth as one of six pool champions.

Champaign won Pool C at Arthur Fletcher Field in Collinsville and earned the bid.

But Collinsville did make the quarterfinals as a wild card, under less than ideal conditions.

"We had to go to another site — Fairview Heights — while we were still being a home site," Helmkamp said. "We didn't know where we were going to Fairview Heights until midnight. That was a bit of a grind."

After rain pushed out the opening game of action last Thursday, Post 365 rattled off three straight Post 365 in pool play before losing to Champaign and Fairview Heights.

Charlie Johnson was the losing pitcher in the 3-0 decision against Champaign; Doug Clapperton, Clayton took the loss against Fairview Heights.

"We thought our pitching were real well," Helmkamp said. "We thought we had the right matchups. We pitched well enough to win Saturday night but didn't get it done at the plate. Copper just didn't get it done. Sometimes pitchers have it and sometimes they don't, and it was a d—n."

Collinsville opened pool play Friday afternoon with a 9-7 victory over Perryville.

Valmeyer surprises Buds in tourney final

Lakers win Summer Classic; Granite City loses 2 decisions

By Garen Vartanian
Staff writer

When Brett Haake squeezed the final out of the 28th annual Valmeyer Mid-Summer Classic on July 5, it ended nearly two decades of agony for the Valmeyer Lakers.

Valmeyer captured its first tournament title since 1980 with an 8-5 verdict against Waterloo at Borsch Memorial Park.

The victory gave the Lakers fourth tourney crown overall.

"It's just a great accomplishment for our team," said third baseman Craig Holman, an 18-year-old veteran. "It's hard to get the field ready and put all this together and to do it like we do it and to come out in this heat is really hard. It's a great accomplishment in what it is. The Buds are a good team. They normally come out on the top end most of the time, so it's really special when you beat them."

A six-run fourth inning propelled Valmeyer (14-8) to victory.

With nobody on, two-out and Waterloo (10-5), Holman (two, Jeff Riedling (three hits) singled, Kenny Mathews followed with a single before Mike McCarthy walked.

Bud starter and lone Darin Hendrickson had pitched Waterloo past Valmeyer in the tournament finals 10-2 last year — then forced in the tying run by walking Haake.

Jeremiah Bergheger and Kris Landgraf ensued with two-run singles, staking the Lakers to a 7-3 margin.

Brett Crawford's run-scoring safety chased Hendrickson and capped Valmeyer's scoring.

John Brink's home run in the seventh and Neil Fiala's sacrifice fly in the eighth cut the Lakers lead to 8-5.

Bud reliever Braden Miller

four of the final five Waterloo batters to clinch Valmeyer's decision.

"You always want to win the championship no matter what," Valmeyer manager Dennis Pieper said. "The thing is with this group of kids, they've been there several times and haven't been able to win the championship before. So I know it really feels great and very rewarding for them."

Tournament Most Valuable Player was Valmeyer's Brink, who hit .500 with a .400 on-base percentage, while Luettich allowed just one hit and one earned run in 3 2/3 innings of relief.

Luettich had pitched a four-hit shutout against Granite City in the tournament opener July 3.

Granite City lost that decision 11-0 and then bowed

2-1 to Cape Girardeau (Mo.) in the consolation bracket.

Fairview Heights ended up beating Cape Girardeau and earned third place.

Hendrickson, a Granite City native and the 1998 tournament MVP, had an unusual outing for the Buds in the championship game. He surrendered eight hits and eight runs — all earned — in 3 2/3 innings.

Paddlers making early splash

Granite City team starts season with two victories

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The summer has officially reached splashdown.

CLUB SWIMMING
The 1999 club swim season is underway, and the Paddlers in Granite City have gotten off the blocks with two victories — a good start, even coming against dubious competition.

"We won both by quite a significant margin," Paddlers swim coach Celeste Furmanek said. "Even though against a smaller team, the end of the season is always harder than the beginning."

Rather than having her athletes specialize in particular events, Furmanek is following the Paddlers tried-and-true formula.

"Our philosophy is that the swimmers swim all the strokes," Furmanek said. "It's important for them to do more than one thing."

Ryan Schooley and Harrison Green have taken the lead in 8-and-under boys. Matt Schooley tops the 9-10 field, and his brother, Justin, leads the 13-14 boys. Brant McFarland and Jonathon Dombek take charge in 11-12 boys, and Matt Dittman and Greg Heintz captain the elders in 15-18 boys.

"We haven't swum against the tough swimmers yet, but so far they look great. The next three weeks will be the toughest, and the kids know that. They know that they have to be ready for the next three weeks if they want to do well..."

Ashley Slover and Brianne Cassidy are two of the girls' two oldest swimmers. Cassie Koeller and Rachel Clark lead a posse of 25 girls at 11-12. Carey Burton and Carrie Bisto fill the bill at 9-10, and Ashley Gordon and Kaisi Hartwick bring up the youngsters at 8-and-under girls.

After a solid 1998 campaign, the Paddlers' expectations are high for another strong finish this summer. But this early in the season, it is difficult to gauge the progress of the team.

"I think it's hard to tell because when we start to swim in the state meets, I like to see how the kids act and see if they always have my best swimmers competing at once," Furmanek said. "But what they have done so far has looked very good."

"We haven't swum against the tough swimmers yet, but so far they look great. The next three weeks will be the toughest, and the kids know that. They know that they have to be ready for the next three weeks if they want to do well because that will be the hardest competition they will face."

Granite City is the host for this year's ALSCA meet, the end of the season's ALSCA. The all-day event will feature more than 500 swimmers competing in preliminaries in the morning, with the top six finishers in each event moving on to the finals in the afternoon.

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES

Dale Jarrett increased his point lead to 177 with his third victory of the season and third career win at Daytona. He held off Dale Earnhardt and was helped by a late caution flag under which the race ended.

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL

Eighteen-year-old Casey Atwood became the series' youngest winner ever, passing Jeff Green on the final lap to take the DieHard 250 on the Milwaukee Mile. Atwood also won the pole.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES

Greg Biffle, winless a year ago, took his third victory of the season in the DieHard 200 at Milwaukee. Ford driver Biffle pulled away from Jack Sprague's Chevrolet in the waning laps.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Rusty Wallace vs. Dale Earnhardt

Wallace led nearly half the laps at Daytona, but when he counted on Earnhardt to draft him near the end, Earnhardt left him high and dry and Wallace finished 11th. "I couldn't believe it," said Wallace. "I thought of all guys, he'd help me." Earnhardt wound up second. His take? A man's got to do what a man's got to do.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "It's everybody's job to help each other in the line. Earnhardt has never been inclined to look out for anyone but himself, and that's one of the reasons he's won so many races. He isn't inclined to help his own teammate, Mike Skinner, so why should Wallace be any different?"

Who's Hot... Who's Not

HOT: Dale Jarrett has finished in the top 10 15 times in 17 races.

NOT: Ricky Rudd's 13th-place finish was his best of the season.

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,

How did Jeff Gordon choose his number 24 for his Winston (Cup) car? I have a NASCAR Mercury Cyclone diecast with the name Cecil Gordon (No. 24) on it. Any relation? Any chance this is where Jeff came up with his (No.) 24?

James Fetterman
Bradford, Pa.

NASCAR assigns the numbers, although the governing body will work with teams on availability. Gordon's number is more related to the fact that Hendrick Motorsports already had the No. 25 in its fleet. Jeff Gordon and Cecil Gordon are not related, and the fact that both used the same number is a coincidence.

Dear NASCAR This Week,

Why do racetracks not have a non-alcohol seating section for fans who do not want to smell that mess? That's why I quit going to races.

Dave Blackburn
Newton, N.C.

Many of them do.

Dear NASCAR This Week,

Correct me if I'm wrong, but wasn't Terry Labonte driving an Oldsmobile Cutlass when he won the Winston Cup points championship in 1984?

Frank Bryant
Stoney Creek, N.C.

During part of his tenure in the Billy Hagan Piedmont Airlines-sponsored car, Labonte drove an Olds, but when he won the championship, he was driving a Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

First Place, a Christ-centered health program, began July 6 at Pontoon Baptist Church, but there is still time to consider joining.

This is a 13-week program designed for women who desire to lose weight and/or develop healthy eating and cooking habits as well as for those who wish to avoid weight related health problems.

The First Place program consists of nine categories of fitness making up 10 weeks. Each member is asked to prayerfully consider and follow. These are attendance, prayer, scripture reading, memory verse, Bible study, literature, fact sheet, phone calls and exercise.

The ultimate goal of First Place is for members to experience a more abundant life, spiritually, mentally, emotionally and physically. The first First Place meeting was an orientation meeting with a study, "Living the Life."

Each study session is 10 weeks in length with daily lessons which take about 10 to 15 minutes to complete. Weekly meetings offer instruction, encouragement and support to help accomplish this goal.

Meeting time is from 6:45 to 8 p.m. at Pontoon Baptist Church, 4000 Illinois 111. If interested, call 931-1613 and talk to Linda.

Phoenix Marie Derner arrived June 1 at Anderson Hospital in Maryville. She weighed 8 pounds 11 ounces. Her parents are Jori Keener and Elizabeth Deiter III. The maternal grandmother is Marsha Kumle; great-grandparents are Bob and Kathy Kumle and great-great-grandmother is Marsha Mason.

Paternal grandparents are

Frank Derner Jr. and Joyce Nunn, and great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Derner Sr.

Suburban Baptist Church, 2500 St. Charles Ave., invites you to accept the ultimate challenge by attending Vacation Bible School, "At Extreme," July 12 to 16. Sessions will be held each day from 9 a.m. to noon.

The bike rodeo kickoff will take place at 10 a.m. Sunday school begins at 9:45 a.m. Those aged 5 years to fifth grade are eligible; a helmet is required.

The first 25 to register get free helmets. A parent must accompany children under 12.

The Salvation Army Home League Ladies met on Tuesday morning, with Maxine Rutter conducting the meeting entitled "Women in the Home."

Prayer was offered for the sick and others who were absent for various reasons.

Doris Nelson, who had been on a life-support machine in the hospital, was able to attend the meeting and thanked everyone for their prayers and recovery.

Maxine Rutter read the poem "Footprints" and discussed how when we are walking with the Lord takes over and carries us through. Evelyn Wimberly read several scriptures for the devotionals.

Maxine reported the new captain will be conducting the next meeting. She has plans for the next quarter's meetings.

A cake sale will be held today and Friday.

Members attending and enjoying the potluck dinner were Marge Szerinski, Gertha Bradley, Cleo Stinson, Ethel Kuehne, Shirley Clay, Hazel Meisenheimer, Stella Parson, Doris Nelson, Evelyn Bringer, Mildred Lovejoy, Evelyn Umphrey, Shirley Gandy, Cleo Stinson, Myrtle Foster, Josephine Bodin, Maxine Rutter, Noma McAmish, Exie McKeal, Gladys Freeman, Alice Hause, Helen Bell, Betty Muhrin, Vickie Allegre, Marie Verbrug, Naomi Russell, Hasie Jones, Lorene Odum and God's Fun Club is off to a great start.

The Saturday morning children's program at First Baptist Church is known as "God's Fun Club" and has been meeting for the past eight weeks. Attendance has ranged from eight to 24 people, with an average of 12.

Songs, memory work, Bible stories, crafts and crafts and games have come to speak to the children, including international students.

Jane from Kenya, Ashton from Trinidad and interim pastor David Wilch from Missouri Baptist College in St. Louis and the church treasurer, Sam Johnson, gave the lesson on Zacchaeus. A light meal is served each Saturday.

Park District is taking trip to Detroit/Windsor, Ontario area

The Granite City Park District will offer a trip on Aug. 17 to 20 to the Detroit/Windsor, Ontario, Canada, area. The trip will go on sale at 8 a.m. today at the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

Guided sightseeing tours will be made of both Detroit and Windsor. Some of the highlights of the visit to that area will be tours of the massive Henry Ford Estate, with lunch being served there.

The Henry Ford Museum offers displays of everything from the actual furniture and items in the Thomas Edison lab to limited editions of many of the past United States presidents, the complete recording studio of famous Motown record, to name a few, as well as numerous exhibits and hands-on activities in the indoor/outdoor attraction.

Another stop of the day in the Detroit area will be the Edsel Ford Home. A day will be spent touring in Canada, which will include the tour of Windsor, shopping at Devonshire Mall, lunch at the Ivy Rose Buffet and a narrated cruise on the Detroit River on the Pride of Windsor.

The cruise on the world's busiest international waterway will highlight points of interest on the Detroit side of the river as well as the Canadian side. After a full day in Canada, the group will return to the United States by way of the duty-free shop, where individuals traveling between the United States and Canada can purchase merchandise at prices that exclude all federal and state taxes.

Another Detroit area stop will be the new Great Lakes Crossing shopping center featuring cost-cutting stores such as Saks Fifth Avenue Outlets, Neiman Marcus Last Call and J.C. Penney Outlet Store, along with 200 other similar shops and theme restaurants.

The cost of the four day trip will be $415 for a single person, $312 each for two to a room, $271 per person for three to a room and $250 each for four to a room. Six meals will be included in the cost, along with bus transportation, lodging and fees to all attractions.

A deposit of 25 percent of residency in the Park District must be shown for each person registered until June 15. Non-residents will be placed on a waiting list and notified of trip availability one week after original sign-up. One person may sign up for one room only.

Call Sue Champion or the park for more information.

Mounds features art show

Native American artists display their work

Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site will feature a Contemporary Indian Art Show, archaeological investigations and dance performances this month.

The Contemporary Indian Art Show will be held in the Interpretive Center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Native American artists will display and sell oil and acrylic paintings, watercolors, gouache, pastels, pottery, silverwork, and sculptures in wood, metal, stone and antler.

The 16 artists represent a variety of tribal affiliations, including Santo Domingo Pueblo, Shawnee, Cherokee, Kiowa, Comanche, Miami, Pawnee, Jemez Pueblo, Creek, Muscogee, Chickasaw, and Gila River.

The artists will compete for prize money donated by United Missouri Bank. The art show is free and open to the public.

Archaeological investigations during July will be conducted by Washington University on Mound 34 and Western Michigan University on the western palisade. Mound 34 was partially excavated in the 1950s, but Dr. John Kelly of WMU plans to reopen the old excavation and re-examine the soil profiles and features.

With today's knowledge about Cahokia, he said he hopes to get a better understanding of the form and function of this mound, the sequence of construction, and where the mound fits into the cultural sequence at Cahokia. Dr. Mary Beth Trubitt will lead the WMU field school, continuing a multi-year project begun last summer to locate the route of the palisade wall around the western portion of central Cahokia.

Both projects, which will continue into August, are funded in part by the Cahokia Mounds Museum Society and coordinated by the Central Mississippi Valley Archaeological Research Institute. When excavations are in progress, visitors may observe the work.

Lavish 'King and I' comes to SIUE stage

Colorful production opens today

The "Summer Showbiz '99" performance of "The King And I" may be one of the most lavish productions ever staged on the campus of Southern Illinois University Edwardsville as part of the "SummerArts '99" program.

From the set design to the color palette of the costumes, the research of the period is evident.

Beginning today, SIUE Theater and Dance Professor J. Calvin Jarrell and a cast of 45 will bring the country of Siam to life. Jarrell is directing the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, which is based on the book, "Anna and the King of Siam."

"I've been reading a lot of history about that time," the director said.

When asked why he chose to do this musical, he replied:

"It's a very well-known musical. It's turned out to also be very timely with the movie coming out later this year."

He's referring to the motion picture, starring Jodie Foster, that is set for a fall release. The film is based on the book, not the musical.

"A very different work," he said, "very serious."

One of the toughest chores for Jarrell was casting.

"It gets tougher each year to audition kids. There's just so many talented kids. A few summer seasons ago, for

"I downloaded pictures and traced the design. That was kind of fun. The sets will have a lot of dark wood with gold gilding, because teak is native to Siam, now Thailand. It's a very exotic country."

'Annie,' we needed to cast 12 children — we used 21.

"This year, we had about 80 kids audition," Jarrell says with a smile.

"There are 14 youngsters in this production."

He pointed out that most of the children cast are from the Edwardsville area.

There also are youngsters involved in other areas of the production as well.

"We have six to eight interns from local high schools working on set construction," explained Theater and Dance Professor C. Otis Sweezy, set designer for the show.

Sweezy has used the Internet for his research for authentic details.

"I downloaded pictures and traced the design. That was kind of fun," he said. "The sets will have a lot of dark wood with gold gilding, because teak is native to Siam, now Thailand. It's a very exotic country."

"The scenery will be built two-dimensional, then painted to look three-dimensional."

Y. Michelle Collyar, instructor in the SIUE Department of Theater and Dance and costume designer for the production, has found authenticity amid brocade fabrics and hoop skirts.

The color palette for the costumes goes from severity to softness to reflect the characters' emotions, Jarrell said.

"It's reflected in the colors and the choice of fabrics," Collyar adds.

"The King And I" runs for two weekends, Thursday to Sunday, July 8-11, and 15-18. All evening performances begin at 7:30 with Sunday matinees at 2 p.m.

'Rescreening of America' is under way

Charlotte Hirst likes the "big movie" experience — elevated seating so there is not a bad seat in the house and surround sound that shakes the popcorn from her bag.

But as she bought a ticket at a downtown art house to see "The Red Violin," she lamented about the choices she would have had at a movie theater with 30 screens.

Americans' hunger for super size — from french fries to sport utility vehicles — is changing the face of theaters across the country with million-dollar facilities replacing outdated multiplexes and community theaters.

"What you're seeing is a rescreening of America. The older more obsolete facility doesn't have the type of seating that people have become accustomed to, and they don't have the technology as far as the sound system and the screens," said Brenda Nolte, a spokeswoman for AMC Theatres Inc.

Regal Cinemas of Knoxville, Tenn., the largest theater chain in the world, expects to build 800 screens this year.

"For 100 years, the same type of theater has been fine," said Phil Zacheretti, a Regal spokesman.

Megaplexes, the first of which was built in 1995 by AMC, is any theater with 14 or more screens, stadium-style seating, large seats with retractable arms and cupholders. The theaters often show the same movie on more than one screen.

In 1998, there were 34,168 movie screens in the United States, up from 22,921 10 years ago, according to the Los Angeles-based National Association of Theatre Owners.

"Home video has created a nation of cinofiles," Kozak said.

But the boom is not good for multiplexes and independently owned theaters, said David Londoner, a New York-based analyst with Schroder & Co. Inc. Most theater companies are reporting declining earnings because it is expensive to build megaplexes, he said.

"If the multiplex doesn't work after the megaplex opens, you close it," Londoner said.

'South Park' goal: offend everyone

A new comedy is here, and it's carrying a message: Offend absolutely everyone, and no one can complain that they've been wronged. "South Park," the moronic yet disturbingly addictive blend of "Peanuts" and "Beavis and Butt-head" that won viewers' inner delinquents on Comedy Central, is making its first big-screen foray.

MOVIE REVIEW

And, wonder of wonders, if you get past the fact that it's juvenile and utterly profane, "South Park: Bigger, Longer and Uncut" is both smart and wildly funny — far better than "Baseketball," the previous cinematic "effort" of Trey Parker and Matt Stone.

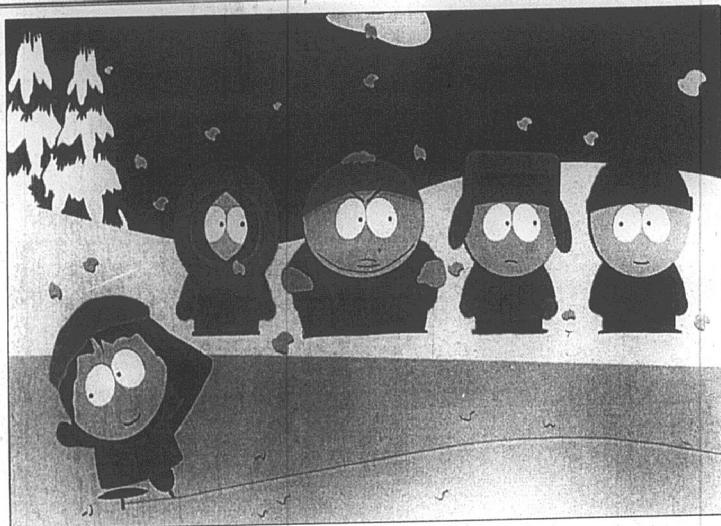

A little background for the uninitiated: "South Park" debuted on TV in 1997, chronicling the lives of four dysfunctional kids with Charlie Brown heads and thick parkas who live in a Colorado mountain town. There is Stan, who throws up whenever he talks to Wendy, the girl he loves; Kyle, who's constantly being picked on for being Jewish; Eric Cartman, who's overweight — "big-boned," he insists — and favors Cheesy Poofs and dirty jokes; and Kenny, whose words you can't understand and who dies horribly in each episode.

Together they wend their way through life, dealing with bad school lunches, telling toilet jokes and battling the occasional giant mechanical Barbra Streisand.

Not exactly family supper-table fare. It was controversial from the get-go. The movie debut is just as offensive, but it's also crack social commentary and a wonderful piece of theater of the absurd that plunders the cultural mosaic, citing everything from the Viewmaster to "The Diary of Anne Frank" to MGM blockbuster musicals.

The premise: A profane Canadian comedy team called Terrance and Phillip comes out with a movie about flatulence. The kids go to see it and learn to swear, then spread their newfound knowledge around town. Parents are outraged, especially Kyle's mother.

Not everyone will like this movie. Yes, it's a cartoon, but it's hardly for kids. And it's easy to be offended by. Yet woven within the muck are some worthwhile themes.

The movie is virtually a musical, with the animated characters breaking into song at every turn. And the songs are actually good, in a '30s way: catchy and memorable even as they lampoon traditional musical comedies.

Beyond that, "South Park," like all good anarchy comedy, actually has a plot — and a point. It takes jabs at racism (an all-black platoon, led by the cafeteria cook "Chef" — voiced by Isaac Hayes — is sent into battle first as cannon fodder). It skewers government quick-fixes (executing Terrance and Phillip to make a statement about the link between popular culture and profanity). It even takes on war culture, offering fake Movietone newsreels and showing Canadians being rounded up and shipped to internment camps. It even introduces a V-chip implant that shocks a child whenever he swears; the foul-mouthed Cartman, of course, is the guinea pig.

'Wild Wild West' is not bad, but not great

Movie lacks spark, wit of previous Will Smith movies

By Ronnie Roy
Staff writer

In the category of "Movies Made Out of Old Televisions Shows," the quality ranges from the very good ("The Fugitive") to the abysmal ("The Avengers").

Somewhere in between lies "Wild Wild West."

Will Smith, no stranger to summer event films ("Independence Day," "Men In Black") stars as James West, a special government agent who relies on his charm, fists and six-shooters to get the job done.

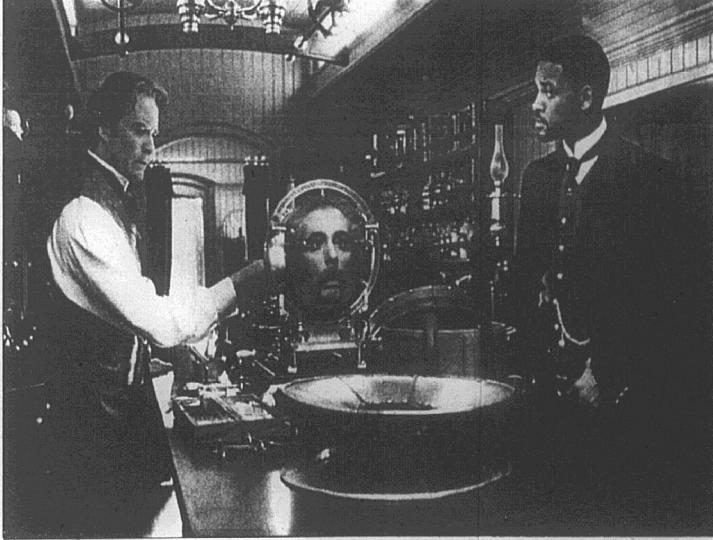

West is on the trail of General "Bloodbath" McGrath (Ted Levine), who is responsible for the massacre of a small town, which included, of course, West's parents.

Unknown to West, McGrath is also the subject of an investigation by special government agent Artemus Gordon (Kevin Kline). Gordon prefers brain over brawn, and is a master of disguise and a clever inventor.

Gordon is after McGrath because he's responsible for the kidnapping of several important scientists. The two agents collide in their attempt to catch the general, and return to Washington to report in with President Grant.

Grant informs the bickering agents that they will have to work together to stop McGrath and his employer, Dr. Arliss Loveless (Kenneth Branagh). Loveless is a genius weaponsmaker who's embittered at the loss of the Confederacy in the Civil War, as well as the loss of the lower half of his body in the conflict. "Wild Wild West" has all the necessary elements for a major summer movie: a fine cast, good special effects, a paper-thin plot riddled with logic holes, and a hot single/music video. But it's missing something — a spark or a sense of excitement. It also lacks the wit of Smith's previous collaboration with director Barry Sonnenfeld, "Men In Black."

Still, the film has a lot to recommend it. The mechanical devices, from the high-tech train to Loveless' wheelchair to the Tarantula, are impressive effects that still maintain an 1860s feel. Smith and Kline are their usual likable selves, but Hayek's role is insignificant.

Rotten TV shows can be classics

Over the years, many bad shows have aired

Trivia

Few would argue that television spews out tons and tons of garbage every year.

What is debatable is which program is the worst of the worst.

My vote for the bottom of the barrel of TV, at least in this decade, is "All-American Girl," which starred comedienne Margaret Cho. I like Cho as a standup comic, but this show was abysmal. I can not remember laughing at anything on it during the few times I happened to catch it during the 1994-95 season.

Some programs are so bad they are entertaining. I put many made-for-TV films in this category. An example that jumps to mind is "The Harlem Globetrotters on Gilligan's Island." It aired in 1981 while I was in college and I can remember about 14 guys from my dorm floor crowding into my room to watch it, and we chuckled throughout the show. I must admit that liquid refreshment undoubtedly made us more receptive to what was presented.

presented.

It would be difficult to pick the absolute nadir of the made-for-TV movie market as so many of them have similar plots. Somebody is sick and/or dying of a terrible disease. A dysfunctional family is in the process of imploding. And of course, somebody stole the baby! It is rare to find one that is even marginally watchable.

I am not prepared to pick a worst of the nighttime soaps as I doubt I have ever taken in a full episode of any of them. I didn't care who shot J.R. then and I still don't.

As to dramas, the one that bored me the most was probably "thirtysomething." I found I could not make myself get interested in the problems of a bunch of whining yuppies. The topic of this week's trivia quiz is rotten television programming.

1. What were the two occupations of the character Danny Tanner on "Full House"?
2. What is the last name of Jeff from the variety show "Pink Lady and Jeff"?
3. What was the name of the musical police show created by Steven Bochco for the 1990 TV season?
4. David Letterman and Michael Keaton were cast members on what star's short-lived variety show in 1978?
5. Which comic actor's late-night talk show on Fox lasted only six weeks in 1993?
6. What sportscaster had his own awful variety show in 1975?

1975?
7 Scientist Simon

7. Scientist Simon MacCorkindale was the main character on what action program?
8. Who played the maid on "The Brady Bunch"?
9. Talk show-fight host Jerry Springer is the former mayor of what city?

10. A Christmas made-for-TV movie, "The Homecoming," served as the pilot for what long-running dramatic series?

ANSWERS: 1. Sportscaster, then local TV talk show host. Bob Saget and Dave Coulier are two of the least funny performers I have ever witnessed. 2. Altman, a pretty good standup comic who was saddled with a crummy show. Pink Lady was a Japanese music act. 3. "COP Rock." 4. Mary Tyler Moore. Letterman sometimes takes pokes at himself for his participation in the program. 5. Chevy Chase. This was an incredibly bad show. 6. Howard Cosell. It was called "Saturday Night Live with Howard Cosell." 7. "Manimal." 8. Ann B. Davis, who played Alice. I never understood why anyone watched this mess, let alone why they would make movies based on it. 9. Cincinnati. 10. "The Waltons." I fell asleep during the few times I ever attempted to view this show.

Horoscope

Thursday, July 8

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY: All dealings with groups, clubs or large organizations could be extremely lucky for you in the year ahead. It'll behoove you to be as sociable as possible, because material benefits can come through them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The fulfillment you're seeking can be found today in things that can't be measured in dollars or cents.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The probability is that your assessment of financial matters will be far more astute than that of your mate's. However, be extra careful how you attempt to get his or her endorsement.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Check with all the references you have at hand today before you hire a service.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be sure to alert everyone involved regarding your intentions should you have to make any changes that affect others as well as yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone who made a promise to you might have to renege on it today. It's best, however, not to make an issue over it, just ready to understand and forgive. It happens to all of us.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're in an expansive cycle at this time where opportunities can be precious, so don't fritter away your time and effort on things that are of a frivolous nature.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) With the exception of situations that are speculative or chancy, overall conditions look pretty good for you today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be both logical and realistic when making your assessments today. Should your expectations go beyond reasonable bounds, you can expect disappointment.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't treat matters today that are in the formative stages as a fait accompli. Chances are you'll be on the right track, but your plans still need time to mature and develop.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Stick close to home today if you're looking to further your financial base. Your fortunes are with the tried and true at this time, not the untested.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Provided you do not impulsively switch your objectives or original game plan, success is likely for you today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even though it might be tempting to ask others to champion positions you espouse today, you'll get far better results if you do the task on your own.

Mounds to offer Indian artists show

Edwardsville will be conducting a field school at Monks Mound doing mapping, photography and remote sensing from July 6 - 16. However, because of the location and to protect Monks Mound, this project will not be accessible to visitors.

The exhibit, "Transportation Archaeology," continues through September. Prepared by the Illinois Department of Transportation, it includes very detailed miniature dioramas created by exhibit specialist Fred Brown. Four sites are featured: the 1841 Edward Mitchell House, a Greek Revival farm house in the Illinois Valley; the Old Landmark Tavern, a 19th century, two-story log structure that was a stagecoach stop on the Vincennes to St. Louis road; the Elizabeth Pottery, an 1850 pottery kiln and factory in northwestern Illinois; and the Kun Brewery, a mid-19th century structure in Springfield.

Only subsurface traces of these structures were discovered using archaeological research during IDOT construction projects. Guided tours of Cahokia Mounds are offered at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and at 12:30 and 2:30 p.m. on Sundays. The first tour starts at the Monks Mound parking lot for a tour of that Mound, and the second tour leaves from the Interpretive Center to visit the Twin Mounds and the Grand Plaza. Self-guided tours are also available through the loan of a cassette player or the purchase of a guidebook in the Museum Shop. For visitors with disabilities, a Braille guidebook is available, as is a 17-minute video tour, which may be viewed upon request.

Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site, administered by the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency, is just eight miles from downtown St. Louis, near Collinsville off Interstates 55/70 and 255, and 111, on Collinsville Road. It is accessible by bus #555 from the MetroLink station at 5th and Missouri in East St. Louis. Cahokia Mounds is open daily free of charge.

Johnnie Johnson is celebrating 75th birthday

By Cathy Pezold
Staff writer

Johnnie Johnson of North St. Louis is a humble, quiet man, but the piano turns him into a performer.

"As long as I'm able, I'll keep on playing," Johnson said in a voice as low as a tuba. "I figure everyone's put here on Earth for something, and music just happens to be my goal I'm trying to fulfill."

"Johnny B. Goode" Johnson, who celebrates his 75th birthday today, is the subject of the famous Chuck Berry song released in the late 1950s. Johnson played piano in Berry's band when the song was written.

"To say Johnnie Johnson was Chuck Berry's piano player is like saying John Lennon was Paul McCartney's guitarist," said Travis Fitzpatrick, author of Johnson's biography, "The Father of Rock and Roll: The Story of Johnnie 'B. Goode' Johnson," due out this week. "It just doesn't make sense."

Johnson will perform at 5:30 p.m. today at Kiener Plaza, 5th and Market streets.

While working with Berry, he wrote many songs for the piano that Berry adapted to guitar. Johnson never received royalties or recognition for his musical collaborations with

When he sees a piano, there's no stopping him. It's like nothing else matters. He's just totally focused on getting to that piano to play."

Frances Johnson

Berry, but he said he isn't bitter.

"Chuck is still my friend," he said. "There's no animosity between us."

In a letter to the Rock 'n' Roll Hall of Fame, Berry supported recent petitions to induct Johnson.

"Johnnie and I have been friends and musical collaborators for over 40 years," Berry stated in the letter. "In my opinion, his membership into the Rock 'n' Roll Hall of Fame would be of great value to the Foundation."

Fitzpatrick said the continued friendship between Berry and Johnson speaks volumes about Johnson's character.

"That's the amazing part," Fitzpatrick said. "If anyone has a reason to be upset or demand recognition, it's Johnnie, but he doesn't have any ill will toward anybody. He just loves to play."

He loves the piano so much, his wife, Frances, said she knows she's his second love.

"When he sees a piano, there's no stopping him," she said. "It's like nothing else matters. He's just totally focused on getting to that piano to play."

Johnson started playing in West Virginia at the age of 5 when his family bought a piano. No one in his family knew how to play, but his mother soon realized Johnson had natural ability.

"Not knowing what it was, I mistook it as a big toy," Johnson said. "I started playing things I heard on records, and that's when my mother decided it was a gift from God."

Johnson formed his first band at age 13. After serving in the Marines in World War II, he decided to make music his life.

"Eventually, my job was in the Special Service Band playing for USO shows," Johnson said. "We had a big 32-piece jazz band with members from everybody's band — Glenn Miller's band, Count Basie's band. We had one big family of musicians."

In 1952, Johnson moved to East St. Louis and started Sir John's Trio, otherwise known as the Johnnie Johnson Trio — a boogie, blues and jazz group. Johnson said boogies, a combination of blues with a Big Band sound, have been his passion since he first started playing.

"If you called yourself a piano player and couldn't play a boogie, you weren't a piano player," Johnson said with a chuckle. "You were a fake."

On New Year's Eve 1952, Johnson's saxophonist fell ill, so he hired Berry to fill in for a gig at the Cosmopolitan Club. Johnson said the two had a chemistry: Berry could mimic on guitar the sounds Johnson played on the piano.

With Johnson's permission, Berry took over the group, naming it the Chuck Berry Combo, and the rest is history. Keith Richards of the Rolling Stones, one of Berry's guitar disciples, said in the 1987 documentary film, "Hail, Hail Rock 'n' Roll," that Johnson's influence on Berry's music is obvious.

In 1998, Johnson was awarded the service mark "Father of Rock 'n' Roll" by the U.S. Patent Office. Many notable musicians — including Little Richard, Eric Clapton, John Lee Hooker and Rod Stewart — have been petitioning recently to have Johnson inducted in the rock Hall of Fame. But the committee contends there is no fitting category for Johnson.

Author started writing biography at age 19

By Cathy Pezold
Staff writer

Travis Fitzpatrick always wanted to write a book but never imagined the subject of his first biography would play into his life.

Fitzpatrick, 23, is the author of blues pianist Johnnie Johnson's biography, "The Father of Rock and Roll: The Story of Johnnie 'B. Goode' Johnson," to be released this week. Fitzpatrick, a senior at the University of Texas majoring in English, started writing the biography when he was 19.

"I saw a chance to do his story, and I wanted his story to get out," Fitzpatrick said.

When Fitzpatrick was in high school, his mother made plans to marry Houston business executive George Turek. One day, almost by fate, Turek's brother accidentally picked up the wrong CD while shopping in a music store.

The CD was one of Johnson's.

"They liked his music so much, they hired him to play at the wedding," Fitzpatrick said.

Fitzpatrick said getting to know Johnson at the wedding was difficult because "he doesn't talk very much, he's very humble." But the more he talked to Johnson, the more Fitzpatrick was fascinated by his story.

"I called him up and said, 'Johnnie, if at any time you want anybody to do your biography, I'd be glad to do it,'" Fitzpatrick said.

Fitzpatrick said he didn't expect Johnson to call, but a few months later he did. Fitzpatrick already had begun to do a little research to show Johnson he was serious. Johnson was surprised.

"It was a thrilling feeling to know someone was interested enough that they wanted to write a book about me," Johnson said.

"I was very flattered." The book, published by Thomas, Cooke & Co., should be available this week.
